Election Inns and outs

Former head of the department of premier and cabinet Graham Inns is lending his expertise to Lord Mayoral candidate Francene Connor in her campaign to oust the incumbent Lord Mayor Michael Harbison at October's City Council election. Connor said Inns was just one of a number of people working on the campaign.

The hard sell

Speaking of campaign help, most of this year's city council candidates would probably give their right arm to have the resources at the disposal of Area Councillor candidate David Campbell. Campbell, 24, is head of a local advertising firm, which helps explain why he's able to produce campaign videos like this.
